ALL ARCHITECTS AND ENGINEERS ARE SO NOTIFIED

USE MINNESOTA MATERIAL
WHEREVER POSSIBLE TO EMPLOY IT

REQUEST MADE BY GOV. OLSON
SENT THROUGH KNUT
WEFELD

St. Paul, Minn., June 3.—(U.P.)—Minnesota products will be used in all state construction work wherever possible, Knut Wefald, executive secretary of the commission of administration and finance, announced today.

On the request of Governor Floyd B. Olson, Wefald sent an order to all architects and engineers preparing plans for the $4,000,000 construction program requesting them to make use of products manufactured in Minnesota on all state building projects.

"As a further protection and aid to Minnesota labor and industry," Wefald's order said, "the governor has directed me to impress upon you that you specify building materials to be used in state buildings, for which you are designing plans."

"Minnesota industry produces some of the finest and most durable brick for building purposes as well as the handsomest and most enduring stone to be found in the world," Wefald's order said.

The governor believes that these materials lend themselves excellently both for the purposes of utility and ornamentation and that such Minnesota made building materials should be used in the erection of foundations, steps, approaches and outer walls of all buildings erected for the state of Minnesota, Wefald said.

"The state of Minnesota is now embarking upon a very ambitious program under which several million dollars will be spent. The money is raised by taxation. The governor believes that every dollar spent for building material should be spent for Minnesota made materials, wherever it is possible to do so in order that as many dollars as possible may be returned to people of the state," Wefald said.

FARMER BUILDS A FENCE ACROSS STATE HIGHWAY

Superior, Wis., June 3.—(U.P.)—The Wisconsin highway commission was asked today to order removal of a fence built across state highway 53 near Superior by George White, a farmer.

The fence prevents use of a cutoff built this spring to eliminate dangerous curves on the old road. White claims the new road runs across his property.

Deputy sheriffs planned yesterday to remove the obstacle but were warned by the farmer to do so at their own risk. They left the fence standing and appealed to the highway commission for assistance.

The coast guard destroyer Hunt will accompany the Nautilus as far as the waters off Cape Cod, where the submarine will be tested on the measured mile course used by navy submarines to determine their speed.

Provincetown is the last stop in this country before the Nautilus departs for polar regions.

DAILY DISPATCH HAS 30th BIRTHDAY TODAY

FRED W. WIELAND
Publisher and Editor

The Brainerd Daily Dispatch today became an institution of 30 years of service to the community of Brainerd, the territory served and its subscribers in far off fields who follow daily events here through its medium.

The Daily came into being on June 3, 1901, when Fred W. Wieland, publisher and editor, and senior partner in the firm with the late N. H. Ingersoll, then postmaster of the city, realized the need for a progressive daily, still continuing The Brainerd Dispatch, weekly, which the two had operated since August 3, 1883.

The Daily Dispatch stands today and will continue to be a memorial to the progressive spirit of Mr. Wieland, its founder and newspaper man for the past 31 years, 48 years of which he worked in Brainerd.

Mr. Wieland began his newspaper career as a youth on the Union Register at Mount Gilead, Ohio, where he served his apprenticeship as a printer. He came to Brainerd on January 13, 1882, to work on the old Brainerd Tribune, a daily, which later went out of existence. On April 1, 1882, Mr. Wieland started work on The Brainerd Dispatch under A. E. Pennell.

RAILWAY NOT CONSIDERING ANY CUTS IN WAGES

CHICAGO-MILWAUKEE, ST. PAUL & PACIFIC IN A STATE-MENT

BUSINESS HAS NOT SHOWN ANY DECREASE IN THE PAST
60 DAYS

Minneapolis, Minn., June 3.—(U.P.)—The Chicago-Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific railroad is not considering any wage reductions at the present time for its 50,000 employees scattered from Chicago to the west coast, H. A. Scandrett, president, said today.

While carloadings remain below figures for the same period last year, business has not shown any decrease for the past 60 days, Scandrett said.

Readjustment of freight rates in line with the 10 per cent horizontal increase allowed by the interstate commerce commission to the western trunk lines will await a conference of the officials of western roads with presidents of eastern railroad companies, he said.

A recent meeting of the western executives failed to evolve any definite plan of action, Scandrett said. Scandrett will leave tonight for Austin, Minn., where the southern terminals of the road will be inspected.

Kidnaping of Girl Ends in 16 Year Old Girl Shooting Kidnaper and Latter Slaying Her

EVELYN BROWN OF WABASHA, MINN., SLAIN BY ADMIRER

GIRL SOUGHT TO ESCAPE FROM HIM AND SHOT HIM WITH HIS REVOLVER

RAY ASHLEY REGAINS POSSES-SION OF WEAPON AND SHOOTS HER

Wabasha, Minn., June 3.—(U.P.)—Enraged when his 16-year-old sweetheart, Evelyn Brown, shot him after he kidnaped her, Ray Ashley, 38, Beaver Dam, Wis., killed the girl today near here.

Ashley, who lived with the Brown family in Beaver Dam for 12 years, borrowed a revolver from a neighbor last night and kidnaped the girl. The two drove all night and this morning the girl obtained possession of the gun when Ashley went to get water for his car.

When he returned, the girl fired at him four times, striking Ashley in the stomach, according to the man's confession to Sheriff R. L. Brown of Wabasha county.

Ashley said he got back into the automobile. Although gravely wounded, he proceeded to drive the car until he could steal the gun. When he had possession of the revolver, he ordered the girl from the car and killed her, he told the sheriff.

An operation will be performed on Ashley to remove the bullet late today, it was said. Physicians said Ashley probably would recover.

A warrant for Ashley's arrest on a charge of kidnaping was sworn out by the girl's parents, Beaver Dam police said. Ashley had a good reputation, neighbors said. It was believed that he had sought to convince the girl to elope with him and when she refused he had kidnaped her.

Ashley held up the Brown family before kidnaping Evelyn.

The first shooting took place a mile south of Weaver, Minnesota, Trunk Highway No. 3, where Ashley stopped to get water for his automobile from a creek. The girl had pretended she was willing to go away with him and he had become careless of the gun, Ashley told the sheriff.

When he returned to the car, the girl opened fire, one bullet taking effect. Ashley climbed back into the car and told the girl to drive to the hospital and he would "let her go."

Pretending to faint, Ashley awaited his chance to seize the revolver and then ordered the girl from the car. He shot her once through the head, he told the sheriff.

10 KILLED WHEN FRENCH BRIDGE BREAKS UNDER TEST

Bordeaux, France, June 3.—(U.P.)—Ten were killed and 20 injured today when a suspension bridge, St. Denis de Piles, over the Gironde river, collapsed during tests. Nine loaded auto trucks were dropped.

The accident was witnessed by a large throng of school children, who had been given a holiday to watch the inauguration of the bridge.

Nine trucks started across to test the capacity of the bridge. They were accompanied by about 50 persons, who fell into the river when the structure broke under the strain. Water covered the trucks.

The dead included the bridge builder. One of those employed on the bridge was saved because he refused to participate in the tests, having dreamed last night that the bridge had collapsed.

'FISHERMAN JOHN'S' SECRETS ARE USED TO RECOVER BODIES

2 FISHERMEN SEARCHING FOR BODY OF JOHN BOTNER
AT WAYZATA

MANY STORIES TOLD OF THE METHODS USED BY THE OLD INDIAN

Wayzata, Minn., June 3.—(U.P.)—The secrets of "Fisherman John," famous Indian diver, for recovering the bodies of drowned persons, were employed today by two fishermen in an effort to recover the body of John Botner, 16, who drowned May 9.

The fishermen were Emmett McLeer and George Thompson, both from Stillwater.

Botner and a companion, Wallace Holton, were drowned May 9 when their motorboat overturned near Big Island. Holton's body was found about a week later but Botner's body has not been recovered.

Many stories have been told about the methods used by the old Indian to account for his unusual success in finding bodies after every other means had failed. "Fisherman John" originally was a commercial fisherman along the St. Croix river. His name was John Jeremy. After recovering several bodies from the St. Croix after grappling and divers had failed to reveal them, his fame spread until he was called to every part of the state to recover bodies.

Reports that "Fisherman John" used a trained muskrat were prevalent and some said he used a sort of diving rod consisting of a loaf of bread and mercury. He always worked alone in a rowboat when away from home and did little diving. Invariably he recovered the body he sought.

McLeer and Thompson claim that at times they were fishing partners of the old Indian and learned his secrets for recovering bodies.

GOVERNMENT NOT IN FARM MARKETING BUSINESS, STATED

SAMUEL H. THOMPSON, NEW MEMBER FARM BOARD, IN
ANNOUNCEMENT

SAYS FARMERS THEMSELVES IN NEW ERA IN BUSINESS OF FARMING

Quincy, Ill., June 3.—(U.P.)—Samuel H. Thompson, new member of the federal farm board, said last night the federal government had not gone into the farm marketing business but the farmers themselves were launched on a new era in the business of farming. It was his first speech since his appointment by President Hoover.

"It is not the government that has gone into the farming business," he said. "Do not pay any attention to the talk about 'government in business,' 'artificial price fixing' and 'setting.' It is the farmers who have gone into the big business of marketing their products and not the government."

Thompson, a dirt farmer who rose to fame as president of the American Farm Bureau Federation and recently replaced Alexander Legge on the farm board, was given a banquet here by the rural neighbors among whom he has lived for the past 25 years.

He said the principal critics of the farm board are middlemen who fear less profits through co-operative marketing.

"The program laid down by congress in the agricultural marketing act calls for organized action on the part of producers in adjusting production to the potential demand and in marketing their crops and livestock," he said. "The farm board is going to assist farmers in every way possible in building their own co-operative marketing system."

"The purpose is to market products of farmer members in such a way as to reflect back to those members the full price paid by the consumer less, of course, the necessary marketing cost. The purpose is to make the law of supply and demand operate for both sides in the transaction and not against the producer, as happens so much under the old system of marketing."

"The farm board plans to help supply the farmers with the latest and most dependable crop and market outlook information. I feel safe in saying that when the board sanctions a co-operative association, farmers need have no hesitancy in becoming members, since the board satisfies itself that the organization is soundly built and managed."

KING GEORGE V CELEBRATES HIS 66TH BIRTHDAY

RECOVERED IN HEALTH, VIGOR-
OUS ENOUGH TO RESUME
HORSEBACK RIDING

PLANS VISIT TO EPSOM DOWNS
TO SEE ANNUAL RUNNING
OF DERBY

London, June 3.—(U.P.)—King George V celebrated his 66th birthday today, recovered in health and vigorous enough to resume horseback riding. He planned a more strenuous birthday than usual, including a visit to Epsom Downs to witness the annual running of the Derby and a family party at Buckingham Palace this evening.

A surprise was caused by the king's birthday honor list, which failed to create new labor party peers to bolster Premier James Ramsay MacDonald's government in the house of lords. The list created no new peers and only four new baronets and 25 knights.

The new baronets include Phillip Devitt, chairman of Devitt and Moore, ship operators and founder of the nautical school at Pangbourne; Sir Edward Elgar, master of the king's music since 1924; Sir Herbert Gibson, for his services in connection with the British Empire Trade Exhibition in Buenos Aires; and Sir Thomas Jaffrey, chairman of the Aberdeen art gallery committee.

REMAINDER OF 1931 PROGRAM IS IN DOUBT

OPINION OF NEW YORK BOND
ATTORNEYS SURPRISE TO MANY

ATTORNEY GENERAL AND OTH-ERS TO THRESH OUT LEGAL COMPLICATIONS

St. Paul, Minn., June 3.—(U.P.)—Present state highway construction projects will be continued, department officials said today, although an opinion by New York bond attorneys may jeopardize the remainder of the 1931 program.

The opinion, which holds that the $15,400,000 bond issue voted by the recent legislature is illegal, was received by Attorney General Henry N. Benson from Thompson, Wood and Hoffman, attorneys with whom the state was negotiating for floating the bond issue.

Highway Commissioner C. M. Babcock, Attorney General Benson and Deputy Attorney General W. H. Gurnee were enroute to New York to confer with the attorneys in an attempt to thresh out the legal complications that threaten to balk the bond issue.

No projects now under way need be cancelled because of the ruling, highway department officials said. Ample funds are available to complete all present work. More than $11,000,000 is available from the motor vehicle tax, $5,000,000 from the federal aid fund and $7,000,000 from the gasoline tax.

The bond attorneys take the position that the state of Minnesota may float only $2,000,000 worth of highway bonds under limitations of the state constitution. Benson said before he left for New York. The law allows the floating of a maximum of $10,000,000 in bonds in any single calendar year.

In 1930 a bond issue of $9,000,000 was issued to pay county bonds maturing last year and this year. Only $1,000,000 was used last year and the other $8,000,000 held over to pay for bonds maturing this year.

The attorneys contend that since $8,000,000 was used this year, only $2,000,000 more can be made available legally. The Minnesota officials will attempt to convince the New York firm that the state constitution refers its limitations only to the year in which the bonds are issued, not in the year in which they are used.

DAILY DISPATCH HAS 30th BIRTHDAY TODAY

FRED W. WIELAND
Publisher and Editor

The Brainerd Daily Dispatch today became an institution of 30 years of service to the community of Brainerd, the territory served and its subscribers in far off fields who follow daily events here through its medium.

The Daily came into being on June 3, 1901, when Fred W. Wieland, publisher and editor, and senior partner in the firm with the late N. H. Ingersoll, then postmaster of the city, realized the need for a progressive daily, still continuing The Brainerd Dispatch, weekly, which the two had operated since August 3, 1883.

The Daily Dispatch stands today and will continue to be a memorial to the progressive spirit of Mr. Wieland, its founder and newspaper man for the past 51 years, 48 years of which he worked in Brainerd.

Mr. Wieland began his newspaper career as a youth on the Union Register at Mount Gilead, Ohio, where he served his apprenticeship as a printer. He came to Brainerd on January 13, 1882, to work on the old Brainerd Tribune, a daily, which later went out of existence. On April 1, 1882, Mr. Wieland started work on The Brainerd Dispatch under A. E. Pennell, from whom he purchased the weekly newspaper on August 3, 1883 and took for his partner Mr. Ingersoll who came to Brainerd from Ada, Minn., on April 1, 1883.

Mr. Wieland entered the daily field when it became apparent to him that the city had outlived weekly publications. He was faced, however, at that time with the knowledge that three dailies in the city had previously failed.

Trials of publishing a daily newspaper were many and it was a daily task to set all type by hand and then publish on a hand fed press.

Mr. Ingersoll devoted most of his time and efforts to his position of postmaster, which he held for 14 years. Thus the publication of the daily was placed practically entirely on the shoulders of Mr. Wieland.

It was not before 1908 that linotypes were added to the equipment of The Dispatch and a Webb printing press was installed in 1912 to further speed publication.

Today The Dispatch presents a modern newspaper plant carrying leased wire service of the United Press and a corps of reporters covering the local field.

GOVERNMENT NOT IN FARM MARKETING BUSINESS, STATED

SAMUEL H. THOMPSON, NEW MEMBER FARM BOARD, IN
ANNOUNCEMENT

NEW ERA IN BUSINESS OF
FARMING

Quincy, Ill., June 3.—(U.P.)—Samuel H. Thompson, new member of the federal farm board, said last night the federal government had not gone into the farm marketing business but the farmers themselves were launched on a new era in the business of farming. It was his first speech since his appointment by President Hoover.

"It is not the government that has gone into the farming business," he said. "Do not pay any attention to the talk about 'government in business,' 'artificial price fixing' and 'setting.' It is the farmers who have gone into the big business of marketing their products and not the government."

Thompson, a dirt farmer who rose to fame as president of the American Farm Bureau Federation and recently replaced Alexander Legge on the farm board, was given a banquet here by the rural neighbors among whom he has lived for the past 25 years.

He said the principal critics of the farm board are middlemen who fear less profits through co-operative marketing.

"The program laid down by congress in the agricultural marketing act calls for organized action on the part of producers in adjusting production to the potential demand and in marketing their crops and livestock," he said. "The farm board is going to assist farmers in every way possible in building their own co-operative marketing system."

"The purpose is to market products of farmer members in such a way as to reflect back to those members the full price paid by the consumer less, of course, the necessary marketing cost. The purpose is to make the law of supply and demand operate for both sides in the transaction and not against the producer, as happens so much under the old system of marketing."

"The farm board plans to help supply the farmers with the latest and most dependable crop and market outlook information. I feel safe in saying that when the board sanctions a co-operative association, farmers need have no hesitancy in becoming members, since the board satisfies itself that the organization is soundly built and managed."

KING GEORGE V CELEBRATES HIS 66TH BIRTHDAY

RECOVERED IN HEALTH, VIGOR-
OUS ENOUGH TO RESUME
HORSEBACK RIDING

PLANS VISIT TO EPSOM DOWNS
TO SEE ANNUAL RUNNING
OF DERBY

London, June 3.—(U.P.)—King George V celebrated his 66th birthday today, recovered in health and vigorous enough to resume horseback riding. He planned a more strenuous birthday than usual, including a visit to Epsom Downs to witness the annual running of the Derby and a family party at Buckingham Palace this evening.

A surprise was caused by the king's birthday home list, which failed to create new labor party peers to bolster Premier James Ramsay MacDonald's government in the house of lords. The list created no new peers and only four new baronets and 25 knights.

The new baronets include Philip Devitt, chairman of Devitt and Moore, ship operators and founder of the nautical school at Pangbourne; Sir Edward Elgar, master of the king's music since 1924; Sir Herbert Gibson, for his services in connection with the British Empire Trade Exhibition in Buenos Aires; and Sir Thomas Jaffrey, chairman of the Aberdeen art gallery committee.

Robbinsdale, Minn., June 3.—(U.P.)—Annexation of Robbinsdale to Minneapolis was defeated for the sixth time in that many years, tabulation of yesterday's election showed. The vote was 849 votes in favor to 664 against or 97 votes short of the five-eighths majority necessary for annexation.

ENUMERATES THE EXTENUATING
CIRCUMSTANCES IN CLOS-
URE OF CATHOLIC CLUBS

By THOMAS B. MORGAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Rome, June 3.—Termination of the Fascist-Vatican controversy appeared today when an inspired note was issued from the Vatican, enumerating extenuating circumstances in the closure of Catholic clubs in Italy by the government.

"Among the causes determining the closing order," the note said, "was the intention of preventing attacks against the invasions of the clubs in an effort to prevent outbreaks, not alone against the pope but against the king."

"In all the clubs," the note said, "there were portraits of the pope, the king and Premier Mussolini. In many cases the portraits of the king suffered the same mutilations as those of the pope. Premier Mussolini's portrait generally was respected, but in one place it disappeared and it is not known where it can be found."

"From our investigation it has been confirmed that the provision closing all Catholic young men's clubs was not a formal application of the decree recently issued but only a police measure. The police said some clubs had been closed only a few days. In others, documents were not taken away but the books were closed and sealed."

"The police have taken measures against many important members of the Catholic youth society. Some were detained and others questioned awaiting further orders. Attorney Borsanigo, honorary president of the Catholic youth society, received a warning to refrain from political action. This measure is usually taken before deportation into exile."

"The government, in justifying its action, says it is in possession of letters sent by Catholics and priests, complaining against the political activities and anti-fascist character of Azione Cattolica, besides which, when the government closed the clubs, it received numerous letters of congratulation from Catholics and priests who objected to the political activities of the clubs."

"The campaign in its final phase may have originated in exaggerated statements of a certain Signor Capa, one of the recent members of the executive council of Catholic youth, which is composed of only 12 members."

"He was said to have attended some public sittings of Azione Cattolica and to have given exaggerated accounts thereof, first offering them to the government, which refused them, and then to the Fascist party, which accepted them. In those reports were the revelations given by Lavoro Fascista and Popolo Di Roma, which began the campaign against Azione."

Washington, June 3.—(UP)—Gangster and racketeering as English words were given the recognition of the United States supreme court when it held the Minnesota newspaper "gag law" unconstitutional, it was revealed today.

OH THESE WOMEN!

LEOLA ALLARD

The letter:

Dear Miss Allard:
Will you please write something about a person who professes to be your friend, yet constantly tells you the mean things people say about you. No need for me to go into detail because I'm sure you have at some time come in contact with just such a type. I am experiencing it for the first time and I'm wondering why and what is the reason?

Thanks so much,

Miss R. A. Chicago.

Those people are jealous of you. They have found that you overcome much that they haven't been able to overcome and they realize you are much more attractive than they ever could be. They envy you with all their hearts and set about to find the flaws in you, so that they themselves may feel better satisfied with their lot.

They tell you these faults to make you uncomfortable. They don't want you—a generous, fine person—to realize too fully their shortcomings—they tell you your faults to bring you down mentally to their own level.

I've had people do that. I know one woman who didn't do anything with her life. She was a decidedly mediocre person, and she wanted to be something else. She hated mediocrity as any mediocre people with ambitions hate it. So she set about to pick flaws in all her friends. She knew what she didn't know about clothes wasn't in the book. She knew what to wear and how to wear it.

She was sure of herself in that respect. So she began to pick her friends to pieces. The one subject upon which she could talk was clothes. She could tell them they didn't dress right, they shouldn't wear this, they should do their hair differently, they shouldn't wear those shoes, they would be smarter in some other kind of hat.

As a matter of fact the women she harped at were individuals. They dressed and acted to suit themselves and didn't give their entire thought to the subject of clothes. But they never felt comfortable in her presence because they were mentally dragged down to her level. If they wanted to talk it had to be about fashions.

I've never yet heard her friends shide her for not knowing what was going on in the world. I've never heard one of them mention any big event in the current newspapers to discover she had actually read it or knew anything about it. She knew that she was a complete washout except on the fashion question and she pursued that to her own destruction. She goes shopping alone these days, or walks in the park. Serves her right.

Yet few people seem to overcome this disagreeable habit. It takes an unselfish soul to be careful of the other fellow's feelings. Most of us hink about what we want, and what we like and how we feel and as a consequence we feel pretty unhappy.

A girl I know when she sees a certain woman going to parties, getting new clothes and thinking life is almost too good to last, the girl gives her a wallop that leaves her silent and staring. She brings up an incident in the girl's past which doesn't reflect upon her character. It was just unfortunate. Good luck was with her so the incident didn't spoil her life, but the meanie seems to resent the fact that it didn't, so she brings the subject up—with painful regularity. And yet I've never heard the other woman, the happy one, return the hurt. That's why she is happy.

More Highway Paving, Grading Bids Asked

Bids on one 10.5 mile paving job and four grading jobs, totaling 38.8 miles, will be received by the Minnesota Highway department June 16, Commissioner C. M. Babcock announced today. These projects will bring the 1931 paving program to 426 miles and the grading program to 342.8 miles. Additional grading projects will be advertised at frequent intervals during the summer.

The paving project includes 4.3 miles on T. H. No. 3, eastward from Four Corners, and 2.6 miles on T. H. No. 29, south from Four Corners to Cannon Falls. Paving on No. 3 from Four Corners to Hastings is already under way. Paving this link on No. 30 will provide continuous pavement from St. Paul to Pine Island over Nos. 1 and 20, and is expected to relieve the traffic congestion on T. H. No. 1. The distance from downtown St. Paul to Cannon Falls and Rochester will be 2.6 miles less via this route than via Nos. 1 and 50. Paving the 4.3 mile stretch east from Four Corners will leave only 8 miles between Four Corners and Ded Wing to be paved in 1932.

Each of the grading projects will effect substantial improvements in reduced distances and elimination of traffic hazards. An 8.6 mile job between Frazee and Detroit Lakes will at the distance one mile and eliminate one grade crossing, one underpass and a dozen sharp curves. The new road will be located on the south side of the railroad all the way. This project will complete the grading of No. 2 from Duluth to Moorhead.

Grading No. 9 from Blue Earth to the Martin county line will eliminate two grade crossings and two turns, with an 0.2 mile grade cut. The highway will be built on the south side of the railroad.

The largest distance reduction is on No. 11, where a 16.5 mile project, starting 16 miles northwest of Virginia, will cut off 3.2 miles and remove about a dozen turns and curves. T. H. No. 25 will be rebuilt on new section from Buffalo to Montrose, eliminating one grade crossing and a stretch of road with a number ofinding turns. The new road will go direct south from Buffalo to a junction with T. H. No. 10, about two miles east of Montrose, thereby shortening the distance 3 miles for all traffic between Buffalo and points on No. 10 east of Montrose, but increasing the distance slightly to points west.

Bids on nine bridges and shouldering paved will be received the same day four sections of highway now state.

Bandit Uses Original Methods to Rob Ban.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 3.—(UP)—A bandit, carrying a shot gun, swung down through the skylight of a branch bank today, handcuffed the institution's employees one by one as they appeared for work and escaped with $6,618.10 which he forced the bank's associate manager to give him from the vault.

The robbery occurred at the Highland Park branch of the Hamilton National Bank and the figures of the loss were announced by T. R. Preston, president. The vault was completely looted and all money taken was in cash with the exception of one $50 Liberty bond.

The letter:

Dear Miss Allard:

Will you please write something about a person who professes to be your friend, yet constantly tells you the mean things people say about you. No need for me to go into detail because I'm sure you have at some time come in contact with just such a type. I am experiencing it for the first time and I'm wondering why and what is the reason?

Thanks so much,

Miss R. A. Chicago.

Those people are jealous of you. They have found that you overcome much that they haven't been able to overcome and they realize you are much more attractive than they ever could be. They envy you with all their hearts and set about to find the flaws in you, so that they themselves may feel better satisfied with their lot.

They tell you these faults to make you uncomfortable. They don't want you—a generous, fine person—to realize too fully their shortcomings—they tell you your faults to bring you down mentally to their own level.

I've had people do that. I know one woman who didn't do anything with her life. She was a decidedly mediocre person, and she wanted to be something else. She hated mediocrity as only mediocre people with ambitions can hate it. So she set about to pick laws in all her friends. She knew clothes. She had been a buyer and what she didn't know about clothes wasn't in the book. She knew what to wear and how to wear it.

She was sure of herself in that respect. So she began to pick her friends to pieces. The one subject upon which she could talk was clothes. She could tell them they didn't dress right, they shouldn't wear this, they should do their hair differently, they shouldn't wear those shoes, they would be smarter in some other kind of hat.

As a matter of fact the women she harped at were individuals. They tressed and acted to suit themselves and didn't give their entire thought to the subject of clothes. But they never felt comfortable in her presence because they were mentally dragged down to her level. If they wanted to talk it had to be about fashions.

I've never yet heard her friends hide her for not knowing what was going on in the world. I've never heard one of them mention any big event in the current newspapers to discover she had actually read it or knew anything about it. She knew that she was a complete washout except on the fashion question and she resented that to her own destruction. She goes shopping alone these days, or walks in the park. Serves her right.

Yet few people seem to overcome this disagreeable habit. It takes an unselfish soul to be careful of the other fellow's feelings. Most of us think about what we want, and what we like and how we feel and as a consequence we feel pretty unhappy.

A girl I know when she sees a certain woman going to parties, getting new clothes and thinking life is almost too good to last, the girl gives her a wallop that leaves her silent and staring. She brings up an incident in the girl's past which doesn't reflect upon her character. It was just unfortunate. Good luck was with her so the incident didn't spoil her life, but the meanie seems to resent the fact that it didn't, so she brings the subject up—with painful regularity. And yet I've never heard the other woman, the happy one, return the hurt. That's why she is happy.

More Highway Paving, Grading Bids Asked

Bids on one 10.5 mile paving job and four grading jobs, totaling 38.8 miles, will be received by the Minnesota Highway department, June 16, Commissioner C. M. Babcock announced today. These projects will bring the 1931 paving program to 426 miles and the grading program to 542.8 miles. Additional grading projects will be advertised at frequent intervals during the summer.

The paving project includes 4.3 miles on T. H. No. 3, eastward from Four Corners, and 2.6 miles on T. H. No. 29, south from Four Corners to Cannon Falls. Paving on No. 3 from Four Corners to Hastings is already under way. Paving this link on No. 30 will provide continuous pavement from St. Paul to Pine Island over Nos. 3 and 29, and is expected to relieve the traffic congestion on T. H. No. 1. The distance from downtown St. Paul to Cannon Falls and Rochester will be 2.6 miles less via this route than via Nos. 1 and 50. Paving the 4.3 mile stretch east from Four Corners will leave only 8 miles between Four Corners and Ded Wing to be paved in 1932.

Each of the grading projects will effect substantial improvements in reduced distances and elimination of traffic hazards. An 8.6 mile job between Frazee and Detroit Lakes will cut the distance one mile and eliminate one grade crossing, one underpass and a dozen sharp curves. The new road will be located on the south side of the railroad all the way. This project will complete the grading of No. 2 from Duluth to Moorhead.

Grading No. 9 from Blue Earth to the Martin county line will eliminate two grade crossings and two turns, with an 0.2 mileage cut. The highway will be built on the south side of the railroad.

The largest distance reduction is on No. 11, where a 16.5 mile project, starting 16 miles northwest of Virginia, will cut off 3.2 miles and remove about a dozen turns and curves. T. H. No. 25 will be rebuilt on new location from Buffalo to Montrose, eliminating one grade crossing and a stretch of road with a number of winding turns. The new road will go direct south from Buffalo to a junction with T. H. No. 10, about two miles east of Montrose, thereby shortening the distance 3 miles for all traffic between Buffalo and points on No. 10 east of Montrose, but increasing the distance slightly to points west.

Bids on nine bridges and shoulder-paving will be received the same day. Four sections of highway now are.

Dispatch Thirty Years Old Today

QUIETLY and unostentatiously, the Brainerd Daily Dispatch had its 30th birthday today.

Since its establishment the paper has endeavored to faithfully record the progress of the city and to aid in its development. The happenings of its citizens have been woven into local history.

Due to the vision, the foresight, the faith of its founder, F. W. Wieland, the paper was established and has continued to flourish and expand with the city. In its period of existence the paper outgrew the days of hand set type, secured a modern press and battery of linotypes and gained United Press news service. Constant efforts are made to improve the paper and to add to its facilities, and to make of it a newspaper that will truly reflect the progressive spirit of Brainerd.

An Important Task

Of the 38,000 veterans of all wars whose remains lie in Minnesota cemeteries, the graves of 12,000 have been officially registered with Ellard Walsh, state adjutant general, through the co-operation of Minnesota American Legion posts and units. According to the adjutant general, the last resting places of 26,000 veterans have yet to be placed on record.

According to the State Legion Commander and the State President of the American Legion Auxiliary, these organizations have dedicated themselves to the task of identifying the unrecorded resting places.

"In the three wars in which our country has been engaged since Minnesota became a territory 153,489 of its sons and daughters have answered the call to the colors," says State Legion Commander A. B. Kapplin. "Of these, 21,991 served in the Civil war, 8,498 in the Spanish-American war and about 123,000 in the World war."

"It is our desire to perpetuate the memory of the defenders of our nation who lie beneath our soil. Numbering about 38,000, they are buried in thousands of cemeteries. Many have long since been forgotten, not because America is ungrateful, but because there has been no organized effort to memorialize their memory."

"In the past, men have served, returned to their homes, lived, died and were buried in the family lot. Many of these graves are now neglected and unknown. Records are lost and many graves receive no attention."

"Upon recommendation of the American Legion, the state legislature in 1927 directed the adjutant general to register by counties the graves of veterans of all wars and appropriated $5,000 annually to continue this work. A survey showed that it would require a small army of field workers to examine the records of every cemetery association and then interview the thousands of relatives and friends of those whose cemetery record might indicate a war service. This appeared to be a tremendous task and one which could not be accomplished by paid field workers."

It is stated that the appropriations made available by the legislature were barely enough to pay for the employment of personnel, printing of forms, postage and other expense in connection with the consolidating of the record in the adjutant general's office. In response to the request of the adjutant general, the aid of the Legion and the Legion Auxiliary was offered.

Four hundred Legion Auxiliary units of Minnesota have been instrumental in officially registering the graves of 12,000 veterans. It is claimed the records of four counties, Anoka, Cook, Lake and Rock are now complete. Regardless of the length of time it takes, Legion and Auxiliary will continue this work until every grave of a former service man or woman is registered.

When the roster of graves is finally completed, it will be published in book form and copies will be furnished to all civic and patriotic organizations. This will be supplemented by additional lists each year and will make it possible to take such action as is necessary to memorialize these veterans and devise definite plans for continuous, respectable maintenance of their graves, thereby preserving their memory for this and all future generations.

Safety Rewards are Life and Happiness

TAKING the preamble to the Constitution of the United States as their cue, upwards of 700,000 school children from all parts of the country seem virtually agreed that "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" are the greatest rewards for observing street and highway safety rules. This was expressed in the essay contest carried on by the Highway Education Board and participated in by elementary schools throughout the country.

The campaign for school children consisted of an essay contest on the subject: My Rewards for Observing Street and Highway Safety Rules.

The general argument followed by the children is that the observance of traffic rules gives the individual life and limb with which he is at liberty to pursue his happiness, whereas failure to observe such rules will gain him nothing but a cot in the hospital. Even if an accident is not fatal, many children wrote, much of the individual's liberty is taken away for a more or less lengthy period of time and he may be deprived of his ability to the pursuit of happiness for the remainder of his life.

Many of the children listed other awards, such as a clear conscience, the knowledge that they were aiding motorists and traffic officers by observing safety rules and the resultant pleasure which this knowledge brings, and the happiness which they bring to their parents by returning home each day safe and sound.

Against Publicity

HERE and there one still finds an organization which deplores the publicity accorded crimes.

The claim is made that publicity stirs others to commit criminal acts, that description of methods used in thefts gives ideas to other criminals.

Leaving out all crime news, or shearing away much of the details, would suit the authorities of some cities, for the public would have no check up as to whether the authorities were doing their duty in ferreting out crime. Crime publicity, that is news of the act of committing a crime and the subsequent action by authorities and their success or failure to apprehend culprits, gives the citizen a clear record of such things in this community.

Keeping all crime news hidden, would contribute to laxness in police departments.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER XL

A N air of expectancy settled upon the little drawing room after Sarah had been dismissed. Bim was too confused to speak and when Reynolds began to sum up the situation his voice sounded harsh.

"We have a pretty clear line on the woman. She hung around the front door here and finally went down to the gatehouse and called a cab that picked her up about twelve. It probably was twelve-thirty or a little later when she left her home. What she did afterward is not especially important. But Frost—"

Better give him another chance to talk."

Bim followed the officers up the hill to the Frost residence. It seemed to her that neither Mary nor Ted were much surprised at their coming, though Mary received them with a white, strained face and said practically nothing.

As on the morning after the murder, Ted refused flatly to explain his movements or to divulge his whereabouts. And Walter reached the end of his patience.

The Breaking Point

"We've given you every chance, Frost. There's been too much obstruction of justice all the way through this thing. Where were you from half-past eleven till nearly four in the morning on the night of the murder? You won't tell and your silence is suspicious. You'll have to come along."

Ted arose, sneering, and then Mary's cry cut like a blade through the room. "I'll tell!" she screamed. "You can't do this to me, Ted! I've protected you—lied for you. For you and—and that woman!" She turned from her husband to the three who waited, her face like a white flame. Ted took a quick step forward and clutched at her arm, he would have stopped her but she rushed on, her words tumbling forth.

"I'll tell where he was! He was where he is right in, right out—with his newest, his most brazen light of love! He was," shrieked Mary Frost, "with Laura Allan!"

Mary Frost collapsed in her chair, sobbing uncontrollably. Bim moved to her side and stood there, trying to offer comfort. Ted was furious but resigned, he sat down and lighted a cigarette. Only the officers seemed entirely unmoved by Mary's revelation and all at once Bim understood why; she knew suddenly that Walter and perhaps Reynolds as well had known all along about Ted and Laura. Mary had known as well; it explained Mary's dislike for the girl. Furthermore it explained the threat Mrs. Briggs had overheard—the threat she had thought was Bunny Baird's but really was Ted's—"If I can't have you no one else will!" Ted must have been desperately in love with Laura. Was it this that Mary had quarreled with him about on the night of the murder—not his flirtation with the Baroness? It seemed likely enough.

"Perhaps," Ted said with elaborate sarcasm, "you will be good enough now to tell me what this is all about? By what right you break into a man's home and scare his wife into hysteria?"

"It's the lighter, Ted!" Bim cried. "It's been found by the Summer house. You must have lost it there."

"Mr. Frost asked me to go away with him," said Laura. It was then that Mary fainted.

Anger twisted over the man's dark, handsome face as he made an outraged gesture. "That," he stated between clenched teeth, "is a lie! If my lighter was by the Summer house or anywhere but here in my home someone carried it out for no other purpose than to throw suspicion my way. I shall not submit to this indignity."

"You won't?" interrupted Reynolds. "Oh, you won't?"

Ted said nothing more and Walter did some telephoning. In the silence that followed Bim thought about the lighter. She believed Ted. But how did the thing get out there by the Summer house? Presently a car drove up and Laura Allan came in.

She was aloof as always, faintly scornful, as she took in the little group and no doubt guessed the meaning of it. Ted gave her a sullen stare though Bim fancied that anxiety underlay his sullenness. He would have placed a chair for her but Reynolds was before him, fixing it so Laura faced the light.

The Truth at Last

"We want to know," he began without preamble. "If Frost was with you at any time Monday night."

She glanced quickly at Mary and flushed faintly but her answer was unhesitating as she answered "Yes."

"Very well, Miss Allan. Where did you meet and at what time?"

"Mr. Frost came to my home, to my apartment there. He was waiting when I got in about half-past eleven."

Incredible, Bim thought, that Laura Allan—the reserved, the fastidious Laura Allan—should so calmly make that admission! Did she realize that Ted was in danger and was she willing to give up her reputation to save him? Or was it just that she didn't care; that something rebellious, perhaps actually perverse, in her disposition made it possible for her not to care?

"How late," Reynolds went on, "did Fred remain?"

"I think," she answered nonchalantly, "that it was after three when he left. Yes, it must have been well on to four."

"Anyone see him there?"

Nothing Concealed

"It's true," she replied earnestly, "that you met Frost in the garden at Eagle's Nest after the dinner party Monday night. You were crying when you came in afterward. Had you quarreled?"

Bim raised her eyes and caught Ted's strained expression; she shifted her gaze to Mary's burning, half-demented stare. Laura went on smoothly, "No, we didn't quarrel. You see Mr. Frost wished me to go away with him and we talked it over when I met him in the garden. I refused," she finished.

It was then that Mary fainted. Bim and Walter carried her to a nearby couch and summoned Sarah who brought water. Reynolds nodded curtly to Laura and she prepared to leave, Ted accompanying her to the car where they talked earnestly.

Well, Ted was saved. But what a situation! What an unbelievable thing, this affair between Judge Allan's daughter and Mary Frost's husband! What would happen now? Would Mary divorce Ted? Would he marry Laura? Could they possibly be happy together if he did?

Bim talked it over with Carl Carey when she met him for dinner, but failed to make him realize the enormity of the thing.

"Takes a small town to produce really hot scandal, girl-child. I picked the Allan gal for a deep-sea worker, you remember. Those frozen babies! No, your friend Mary won't want a divorce. What for? They'll kiss and make up and he'll find himself another sweetie."

Dispatch Thirty Years Old Today

QUIETLY and unostentatiously, the Brainerd Daily Dispatch had its 30th birthday today.

Since its establishment the paper has endeavored to faithfully record the progress of the city and to aid in its development. The happenings of its citizens have been woven into local history.

Due to the vision, the foresight, the faith of its founder, F. W. Wieland, the paper was established and has continued to flourish and expand with the city. In its period of existence the paper outgrew the days of hand set type, secured a modern press and battery of linotypes and gained United Press news service. Constant efforts are made to improve the paper and to add to its facilities, and to make of it a newspaper that will truly reflect the progressive spirit of Brainerd.

An Important Task

Of the 38,000 veterans of all wars whose remains lie in Minnesota cemeteries, the graves of 12,000 have been officially registered with Ellard Walsh, state adjutant general, through the co-operation of Minnesota American Legion posts and units. According to the adjutant general, the last resting places of 26,000 veterans have yet to be placed on record.

According to the State Legion Commander and the State President of the American Legion Auxiliary, these organizations have dedicated themselves to the task of identifying the unrecorded resting places.

"In the three wars in which our country has been engaged since Minnesota became a territory 153,489 of its sons and daughters have answered the call to the colors," says State Legion Commander A. B. Kapplin. "Of these, 21,391 served in the Civil war, 8,498 in the Spanish-American war and about 123,000 in the World war."

"It is our desire to perpetuate the memory of the defenders of our nation who lie beneath our soil. Numbering about 38,000, they are buried in thousands of cemeteries. Many have long since been forgotten, not because America is ungrateful, but because there has been no organized effort to memorialize their memory."

"In the past, men have served, returned to their homes, lived, died and were buried in the family lot. Many of these graves are now neglected and unknown. Records are lost and many graves receive no attention."

"Upon recommendation of the American Legion, the state legislature in 1927 directed the adjutant general to register by counties the graves of veterans of all wars and appropriated $5,000 annually to continue this work. A survey showed that it would require a small army of field workers to examine the records of every cemetery association and then interview the thousands of relatives and friends of those whose cemetery record might indicate a war service. This appeared to be a tremendous task and one which could not be accomplished by paid field workers."

It is stated that the appropriations made available by the legislature were barely enough to pay for the employment of personnel, printing of forms, postage and other expense in connection with the consolidating of the record in the adjutant general's office. In response to the request of the adjutant general, the aid of the Legion and the Legion Auxiliary was offered.

Four hundred Legion Auxiliary units of Minnesota have been instrumental in officially registering the graves of 12,000 veterans. It is claimed the records of four counties, Anoka, Cook, Lake and Rock are now complete. Regardless of the length of time it takes, Legion and Auxiliary will continue this work until every grave of a former service man or woman is registered.

When the roster of graves is finally completed, it will be published in book form and copies will be furnished to all civic and patriotic organizations. This will be supplemented by additional lists each year and will make it possible to take such action as is necessary to memorialize these veterans and devise definite plans for continuous, respectable maintenance of their graves, thereby preserving their memory for this and all future generations.

Safety Rewards are Life and Happiness

TAKING the preamble to the Constitution of the United States as their cue, upwards of 700,000 school children from all parts of the country seem virtually agreed that "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" are the greatest rewards for observing street and highway safety rules. This was expressed in the essay contest carried on by the Highway Education Board and participated in by elementary schools throughout the country.

The campaign for school children consisted of an essay contest on the subject: My Rewards for Observing Street and Highway Safety Rules.

The general argument followed by the children is that the observance of traffic rules gives the individual life and limb which he is at liberty to pursue his happiness, whereas failure to observe such rules will gain him nothing but a cot in the hospital. Even if an accident is not fatal, many children wrote, much of the individual's liberty is taken away for a more or less lengthy period of time and he may be deprived of his ability to the pursuit of happiness for the remainder of his life.

Many of the children listed other awards, such as a clear conscience, the knowledge that they were aiding motorists and traffic officers by observing safety rules and the resultant pleasure which this knowledge brings, and the happiness which they bring to their parents by returning home each day safe and sound.

Against Publicity

HERE and there one still finds an organization which deprecates the publicity accorded crimes.

The claim is made that publicity stirs others to commit criminal acts, that description of methods used in thefts gives ideas to other criminals.

Leaving out all crime news, or shearing away much of the details, would suit the authorities of some cities, for the public would have no check up as to whether the authorities were doing their duty in ferreting out crime. Crime publicity, that is news of the act of committing a crime and the subsequent action by authorities and their success or failure to apprehend culprits, gives the citizen a clear record of such things in this community.

Keeping all crime news hidden, would contribute to laxness in police departments.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER XL

AN air of expectancy settled upon the little drawing room after Sarah had been dismissed. Bim was too confused to speak and when Reynolds began to sum up the situation his voice sounded harsh.

"We have a pretty clear line on the woman. She hung around the front door here and finally went down to the gatehouse and called a cab that picked her up about twelve. It probably was twelve-thirty or a little later when she left her home. What she did afterward is not especially important. But Frost . . . Better give him another chance to talk."

Bim followed the officers up the hill to the Frost residence. It seemed to her that neither Mary nor Ted were much surprised at their coming, though Mary received them with a white, strained face and said practically nothing.

As on the morning after the murder, Ted refused flatly to explain his movements or to divulge his whereabouts. And Walter reached the end of his patience.

"We've given you every chance, Frost. There's been too much obstruction of justice all the way through this thing. Where were you from half-past eleven till nearly four in the morning on the night of the murder? You won't tell and your silence is suspicious. You'll have to come along."

The Breaking Point

Ted arose, sneering, and then Mary's cry cut like a blade through the room. "I'll tell!" she screamed. "You can't do this to me, Ted! I've protected you—lied for you. For you and—and that woman!" She turned from her husband to the three who waited, her face like a white flame. Ted took a quick step forward and clutched at her arm, he would have stopped her but she rushed on, her words tumbling forth.

"I'll tell where he was! He was where he is right in, right out—with his newest, his most brazen light of love! He was," shrieked Mary Frost, "with Laura Allan!"

Mary Frost collapsed in her chair, sobbing uncontrollably. Bim moved to her side and stood there, trying to offer comfort. Ted was furious but resigned, he sat down and lighted a cigarette. Only the officers seemed entirely unmoved by Mary's revelation and all at once Bim understood why; she knew suddenly that Walter and perhaps Reynolds as well had known all along about Ted and Laura. Mary had known as well, it explained Mary's dislike for the girl. Furthermore it explained the threat Mrs. Briggs had overheard—the threat she had thought was Bunny Baird's but really was Ted's—"If I can't have you no one else will!" Ted must have been desperately in love with Laura. Was it this that Mary had quarreled with him about on the night of the murder—not his flirtation with the Baroness? It seemed likely enough.

"Perhaps," Ted said with elaborate sarcasm, "you will be good enough now to tell me what this is all about? By what right you break into a man's home and scare his wife into hysteria?"

"It's the lighter, Ted!" Bim cried. "It's been found by the Summer house. You must have lost it there."

"Perhaps," Ted said with elaborate sarcasm, "you will be good enough now to tell me what this is all about? By what right you break into a man's home and scare his wife into hysteria?"

"It's the lighter, Ted!" Bim cried. "It's been found by the Summer house. You must have lost it there."

"Perhaps," Ted said with elaborate sarcasm, "you will be good enough now to tell me what this is all about? By what right you break into a man's home and scare his wife into hysteria?"

"Mr. Frost asked me to go away with him," said Laura. It was then that Mary fainted.

Anger twisted over the man's dark, handsome face as he made an outraged gesture. "That," he stated between clenched teeth, "is a lie! If my lighter was by the Summer house or anywhere but here in my home someone carried it out for no other purpose than to throw suspicion my way. I shall not submit to this indignity."

"You won't?" interrupted Reynolds. "Oh, you won't?"

Ted said nothing more and Walter did some telephoning. In the silence that followed Bim thought about the lighter. She believed Ted. But how did the thing get out there by the Summer house? Presently a car drove up and Laura Allan came in.

She was aloof as always, faintly scornful, as she took in the little group and no doubt guessed the meaning of it. Ted gave her a sudden stare though Bim fancied that anxiety underlay his sullenness. He would have placed a chair for her but Reynolds was before him, fixing it so Laura faced the light.

"It's the lighter, Ted!" Bim cried. "It's been found by the Summer house. You must have lost it there."

"Perhaps," Ted said with elaborate sarcasm, "you will be good enough now to tell me what this is all about? By what right you break into a man's home and scare his wife into hysteria?"

JOHN DEWAR'S CAMERONIAN WINS DERBY AT EPSOM DOWNS

FAVORITE IS VICTOR IN 148TH RUNNING OF ENGLISH DERBY

GREAT COLT DEFEATS 24 OTHER SMART THREE-YEAR-OLDS

WINS UNDYING TURF FAME AND A PURSE OF $69,500

TODAY

By TOM CREEDON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Epsom Downs, June 3.—John A. Dewar's Cameronian, the favorite, won the 148th running of the Derby before a throng of more than 500,000 on Epsom Downs today.

Orpen was second and Sandwich was third.

The great colt defeated 24 other smart three-year-olds to win undying turf fame and a purse of $69,500. His victory brought a prize of $145,500 to Joseph Kennedy, of Boston, who held a ticket on him in the Irish Sweepstakes, and to 18 other holders of tickets in the British Isles and elsewhere. Cameronian was pronounced favorite at 7 to 2 in the betting. Orpen, owned by Sir John Rutherford, was 9 to 1, and Sandwich, owned by Lord Rosebery, was 8 to 1.

The king and queen and the Prince of Wales and all the other members of the royal family watched a truly great Derby won. The champion jockey, Fred Fox, put up a wonderful ride on the winner of the Two Thousand Guineas and the crowd was given a mighty thrill in the long stretch run past the stands, where Cameronian held his lead and withstood a hard drive to cross the wire in front.

They were off at 3:06. Cameronian sprang to the front going up the hill, followed by Estate Duty and Orpen. At the half mile, before turning Tattenham Corner, Grindleton and Gallini took temporary command.

Cameronian, a great son of Pharoas-

Una Cameron, was always well in hand, however, and made his bid after the turn around the corner. He went on to win by three-fourths of a length. Sandwich was the same distance back of Orpen, and Marcel Boussac's Goyec was fourth, another three-quarters back of Sandwich.

Goyec was 100 to 6 in the betting. Marshall Field's Cacopo, the Aga Khan's well-fancied Pomme D'Api, and Sir Edward Hammers' Gallini finished almost in a line for fifth place. The official time for the mile and a half was 3:36 3-5, which was 1 2-5 seconds faster than Blenheim's time last year.

Cameronian is only the third favorite to win since the war. He is a good-looking bay, of the small, handy type. His sire, Lord Derby's Pharoas, was not a pronounced stayer and there was some doubt of Cameronian's distance-running ability. He won the mile of the Two Thousand Guineas on a tight rein, however, and proved his stamina by his stout finish today.

Cameronian was trained in Wiltshire by Fred Darling, one of the younger trainers. Many of his backers bet him at the odds of 33 to 1, before he won the Guineas.

Boston, June 3.—Joseph P. Kennedy, diminutive South End negro, had exactly $1.11 in his overalls pocket today when he learned that he had won $145,000 through Cameronian's victory in the Derby.

"I pray to God that I use it wisely," he said, solemnly.

He had gone to work as usual this morning at the Morgan Memorial, a welfare organization which has employed him for the past six months repairing baby carriages at wages of $12 a week.

London, June 3.—One of the 19 winners on the Cameronian ticket in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes was J. Collins, a blind basketmaker, who shared the ticket with a brother and two nephews.

Commenting upon his good fortune today, Collins said: "I've been in sweepstakes for many years but this is the first time anything has come my way. Trade is bad and the money certainly will be very handy."

"I have no intention of quitting work, even if I win 30,000 pounds. It is what nature made me for. Look at my hands! Could I give up working with hands like that?"

Other holders of tickets on Cameronian included the baby daughter of J. J. Best of Great Crosby, Lancashire, and George Franklin, newspaper compositor, who wrote:

"My first consideration will be the education of my two children." It was recalled that Franklin was asleep when notification came that he had drawn a horse. He thought it was a joke and grumbled: "Let me alone. I want to sleep."

T. J. Cross, a resident of Colney, Norwich, was another Cameronian holder. Prior to the race he said: "Whatever I get will be a Godsend."

WALLY GILBERT AIDS BROOKLYN TO BEAT CHICAGO 7-6

Yesterday's hero—Wally Gilbert, third baseman, whose batting and fielding enabled Brooklyn to defeat Chicago 7 to 6. Gilbert's triple in the ninth inning brought in two runs that tied the score and he tallied the deciding run in the ninth when he scored on Herman's long fly. In addition he played a spectacular game in the field.

Lewell Marsh, national intercollegiate backstroke swimming champion and captain of the University of Minnesota swimming team, recently has been awarded the Western Conference medal for proficiency in scholarship and athletics at Minnesota. Marsh, for three years an outstanding swimmer in the Big Ten, was undefeated in 1931, winning both the conference and national titles in the 150-yard backstroke event. During 1930 Marsh was defeated but once in dual meet competition, being runner-up for the national title that season. Marsh will graduate from the School of Business Administration this month. He came to the university from St. Paul, where he established state and national records in interscholastic competition while at Central High School.

COME BACK IN MOST SURPRISING FASHION AND FORM

AFTER BLOWING ADVANTAGE THEY BUILT UP EARLY IN SEASON

NOW POAST WINNING STREAK OF EIGHT CONSECUTIVE VICTORIES

By LEO H. PETERSEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, June 3.—The Cleveland Indians are on the warpath again.

After blowing the advantage they built up early in the season, the Indians have come back in surprising fashion and now boast a winning streak of eight consecutive games. Although still nine games behind the pace-setting Philadelphia Athletics, Cleveland promises to cause plenty of trouble for the American League pennant contenders if the team continues its present stride.

When the first interseasonal competition of the year broke out in the major leagues three weeks ago, the Indians held the lead in their league. They lost it, however, when they were the victims of a twelve-game losing streak. Since then they have hit their winning stride again, and have climbed back into the first division.

Cleveland made it eight in a row yesterday by knocking out the Boston Red Sox, 12 to 11. The Indians shelled three Boston pitchers for eight runs in the sixth inning but almost lost out in the ninth when Boston scored five runs and had what would have been the tying run tagged out at the plate for the third out.

The Philadelphia Athletics retained

their five-game lead over Washington with a 3 to 2 victory over Chicago. Bing Miller's home run with Fox on base in the sixth inning proved the downfall of Pat Caraway. Rube Walberg allowed only four hits in registering his eighth victory.

Washington kept pace with the league leaders by turning back the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 3. The Senators collected 12 hits off their old Nemesis, Earl Whitehill, while Carl Fischer, a rookie, was holding Detroit at bay.

New York also kept in the running with a 9 to 2 verdict over the St. Louis Browns. The Yankees clinched the contest in the sixth inning when they got to Gray for five hits and four runs. Lefty Gomez held the Browns to nine scattered blows.

The St. Louis Cardinals increased their National League leadership to two and one-half games by defeating the second place New York Giants, 4 to 3. Burleigh Grimes won his own game when he singled in the eighth inning to score Hafey.

Brooklyn continued its winning streak and advanced into a tie with Boston for fourth place by turning back the Chicago Cubs, 7 to 6. Wally Gilbert's triple with two men on base drove in the tying runs in the ninth inning and the Robin third-sacker scored the winning counter a moment later on Herman's long fly.

Ed Brandt, star Boston southpaw, suffered his first defeat of the season after eight consecutive victories, when Pittsburgh won, 4 to 3. Three singles in the ninth inning enabled the Pirates to come from behind.

Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati, 6 to 2, in the other major league contest. Jim Elliott held the Reds in check until the ninth inning when he developed a streak of wildness and forced two runs in by issuing bases on balls. OLD-TIMERS, who still talk of Terry McGovern as "the John L. Sullivan of the little fellows," are interested now in the fast progress of Tony Herrera because that family name revives memories of some of the ring's most poignant thrills. Aurelio Herrera! He never won a championship but he had all the attributes of a real champ save the title! He gave McGovern a terrific battle when "Terrible Terry" was in his prime. The little Mexican with the big wallop came within seconds of knocking out the Brooklyn wonder. A colorful clout-er and courageous to the core, Aurelio made an indelible impression on the fight fans of thirty years ago.

And now comes his nephew, Tony, who is beginning to box his way to lightweight heights. The 1931 Herrera was acclaimed for his punch but, judging from his ten-round showing against Jackie Kid Berg recently, Tony is a boxer rather than a genuine slugger. Berg got the decision that night but it was close. The Englishman's whirlwind attack did not overwhelm Herrera, yet Berg did keep him back-peddling too much of the time. Tony boxed superbly and landed by far the most clean blows. But the K. O. sock was missing and Berg had the better of most of the toe-to-toe exchanges.

In another year Herrera may reverse that result for he gives every sign of becoming a title contender. Perhaps he will perfect the punch that failed to stop Berg. And when he does, Tony will make the third of Mexico's ring trinity in which Aurelio Herrera and Joe Rivers are talked of wherever gloved dynamiters are discussed.

The new Herrera is 23 years old officially (he looks and may be younger). Tony's been boxing professionally for a little more than two years. He's beaten such good battlers as Tommy Grogan, Eddie Anderson, Joe Glick and Jackie Pilkington. Old-timers, who watched Tony in action, say he's a better boxer than Aurelio was, but—oh, how they miss the historic Herrera wallop!

WARDS WIN 7-5 FROM BRAINOS

WALKS, ERRORS FAIL TO HELP PEVEVERAGES IN CITY D-BALL GAME

The Montgomery Ward kittenball team defeated the Brainos 7-5 in a well played game at the N. P. diamond last night. "Cannonball" Werner pitched a fine game, striking out 12 and only allowed two hits. Brainos scored two in the third on two walks and an error and three more in the sixth on two walks and two errors. Fitzharris and J. Heikkinen were outstanding for Brainos.

Paine, Tribur and Kane supplied most of the punch for the Ward team, each making two hits and runs. Graff playing second base was the fielding star of the game, coming up with three spectacular catches.

Tonight the Bye Clothing team will play the Montgomery Wards in a practice game at 6:15 o'clock.

JOHN DEWAR'S CAMERONIAN WINS DERBY AT EPSOM DOWNS

FAVORITE IS VICTOR IN 148TH RUNNING OF ENGLISH DERBY

CLEVELAND INDIANS ARE ON THE WAR PATH AGAIN

GREAT COLT DEFEATS 24 OTHER SMART THREE-YEAR-OLDS

WINS UNDYING TURF FAME AND A PURSE OF $69,500 TODAY

By TOM CREEDON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Epsom Downs, June 3.—John A. Dewar's Cameronian, the favorite, won the 148th running of the Derby before a throng of more than 500,000 on Epsom Downs today.

Orpen was second and Sandwich was third.

The great colt defeated 24 other smart three-year-olds to win undying turf fame and a purse of $69,500. His victory brought a prize of $145,500 to Joseph Kennedy, of Boston, who held a ticket on him in the Irish Sweepstakes, and to 18 other holders of tickets in the British Isles and elsewhere.

Cameronian was pronounced favorite at 7 to 2 in the betting. Orpen, owned by Sir John Butterford, was 9 to 1, and Sandwich, owned by Lord Rosebery, was 8 to 1.

The king and queen and the Prince of Wales and all the other members of the royal family watched a truly great Derby won. The champion jockey, Fred Fox, put up a wonderful ride on the winner of the Two Thousand Guineas and the crowd was given a mighty thrill in the long stretch run past the stands, where Cameronian held his lead and withstood a hard drive to cross the wire in front.

They were off at 3:06. Cameronian sprang to the front going up the hill, followed by Estate Duty and Orpen. At the half mile, before turning Tottenham Corner, Grinstead and Gallini took temporary command.

Cameronian, a great son of Pharoas-

Una Cameron, was always well in hand, however, and made his bid after the turn around the corner. He went on to win by three-fourths of a length. Sandwich was the same distance back of Orpen, and Marcel Boussac's Goyescas was fourth, another three-quarters back of Sandwich.

Goyescas was 100 to 6 in the betting. Marshall Field's Caco, the Aga Khan's well-fancied Pomme d'Api, and Sir Edward Hammers' Gallini finished almost in a line for fifth place. The official time for the mile and a half was 3:36 3-5, which was 1 2-5 seconds faster than Blenheim's time last year.

Cameronian is only the third favorite to win since the war. He is a good-looking bay, of the small, handy type. His sire, Lord Derby's Pharoas, which ran second in the 1923 Derby, was not a pronounced stayer and there was some doubt of Cameronian's distance-running ability. He won the mile of the Two Thousand Guineas on a tight rein, however, and proved his stamina by his stout finish today.

Cameronian was trained in Wiltshire by Fred Darling, one of the younger trainers. Many of his backers bet him at the odds of 33 to 1, before he won the Guineas.

Boston, June 3.—Joseph P. Kennedy, diminutive South Bend negro, had exactly $1.11 in his overalls' pocket today when he learned that he had won $145,000 through Cameronian's victory in the Derby.

"I pray to God that I use it wisely," he said, solemnly.

He had gone to work as usual this morning at the Morgan Memorial, a welfare organization which has employed him for the past six months repairing baby carriages at wages of $12 a week.

London, June 3.—One of the 19 winners on the Cameronian ticket in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes was J. Collins, a blind basketmaker, who shared the ticket with a brother and two nephews.

Commenting upon his good fortune today, Collins said:

"I've been in sweepstakes for many years but this is the first time anything has come my way. Trade is bad and the money certainly will be very handy."

"I have no intention of quitting work, even if I win 30,000 pounds. It is what nature made me for. Look at my hands! Could I give up working with hands like that?"

Other holders of tickets on Cameronian included the baby daughter of J. J. Best of Great Crosby, Lancashire, and George Franklin, newspaper compositor, who wrote:

"My first consideration will be the education of my two children."

It was recalled that Franklin was asleep when notification came that he had drawn a horse. He thought it was a joke and grumbled:

"Let me alone. I want to sleep."

T. J. Cross, a resident of Colney, Norwich, was another Cameronian holder. Prior to the race he said:

"Whatever I get will be a Godsend."

WALLY GILBERT AIDS BROOKLYN TO BEAT CHICAGO 7-6

Yesterday's hero—Wally Gilbert, third baseman, whose batting and fielding enabled Brooklyn to defeat Chicago 7 to 6. Gilbert's triple in the ninth inning brought in two runs that tied the score and he tallied the deciding marker a moment later on Herman's long fly. Lowell Marsh, national intercollegiate backstroke swimming champion and captain of the University of Minnesota swimming team, recently has been awarded the Western Conference medal for proficiency in scholarship and athletics at Minnesota. Marsh, for three years an outstanding swimmer in the Big Ten, was undefeated in 1931, winning both the conference and national titles in the 150-yard backstroke event. During 1930 Marsh was defeated but once in dual meet competition, being runner-up for the national title that season. Marsh will graduate from the School of Business Administration this month. COME BACK IN MOST SURPRISING FASHION AND FORM

AFTER BLOWING ADVANTAGE THEY BUILT UP EARLY IN SEASON

NOW POAST WINNING STREAK OF EIGHT CONSECUTIVE VICTORIES

By LEO H. PETERSEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, June 3.—The Cleveland Indians are on the warpath again.

After blowing the advantage they built up early in the season, the Indians have come back in surprising fashion and now boast a winning streak of eight consecutive games. Although still nine games behind the pace-setting Philadelphia Athletics, Cleveland promises to cause plenty of trouble for the American League pennant contenders if the team continues its present stride.

When the first interseasonal competition of the year broke out in the major leagues three weeks ago, the Indians held the lead in their league. They lost it, however, when they were the victims of a twelve-game losing streak. Since then they have hit their winning stride again, and have climbed back into the first division.

Cleveland made it eight in a row yesterday by noosing out the Boston Red Sox, 12 to 11. The Indians shelled three Boston pitchers for eight runs in the sixth inning but almost lost out in the ninth when Boston scored five runs and had what would have been the tying run tagged out at the plate for the third out.

The Philadelphia Athletics retained

their five-game lead over Washington with a 3 to 2 victory over Chicago. Bing Miller's home run with Fox on base in the sixth inning proved the downfall of Pat Caraway. Rube Walberg allowed only four hits in registering his eighth victory.

Washington kept pace with the league leaders by turning back the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 3. The Senators collected 12 hits off their old Nemesis, Earl Whitehill, while Carl Fischer, a rookie, was holding Detroit at bay.

New York also kept in the running with a 9 to 2 verdict over the St. Louis Browns. The Yankees clinched the contest in the sixth inning when they got to Gray for five hits and four runs. Lefty Gomez held the Browns to nine scattered blows.

The St. Louis Cardinals increased their National League leadership to two and one-half games by defeating the second place New York Giants, 4 to 3. Burleigh Grimes won his own game when he singled in the eighth inning to score Hafey.

Brooklyn continued its winning streak and advanced into a tie with Boston for fourth place by turning back the Chicago Cubs, 7 to 6. Wally Gilbert's triple with two men on base drove in the tying runs in the ninth inning and the Robin third-sacker scored the winning counter a moment later on Herman's long fly.

Ed Brandt, star Boston southpaw, suffered his first defeat of the season after eight consecutive victories, when Pittsburgh won, 4 to 3. Three singles in the ninth inning enabled the Pirates to come from behind.

Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati, 6 to 2, in the other major league contest. Jim Elliott held the Reds in check until the ninth inning when he developed a streak of wildness and forced two runs in by issuing bases on balls. Chuck Klein hit two home runs, his twelfth and thirteenth of the season and was the feature of Philadelphia's 11-hit attack on Red Lucas.

In Music 50 Years

Walter Damrosch (above) began his musical activities in New York in May, 1881, when he assisted his father in preparation of a festival program. Now he is receiving congratulations on the fiftieth anniversary of his entrance into American musical life. Mr. Damrosch, after many years of concert orchestra work, is now engaged as radio musical counselor.

The 1932 Olympics in Los Angeles are Carrie's principal aim.

Cupid Beats Star

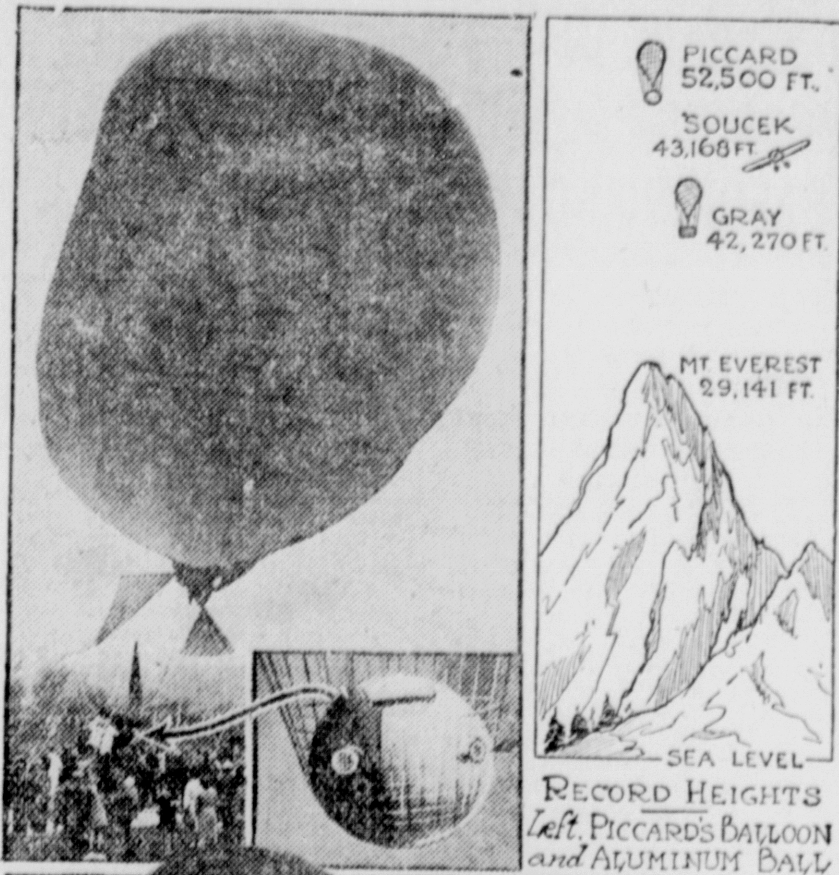

Cupid has won a victory over Glenna Collett (upper), where few individuals ever could accomplish it. Glenna, leading woman golfer of the U. S. and holder for the last five years of the national championship, has become engaged to Edwin H. Vare, Jr. (lower), of Ambler, Pa., also a golfer, construction engineer and nephew of William S. Vare, Republican leader of Pennsylvania. The wedding bells will ring out soon, according to announcement from the bride-to-be's mother, of Greenwich, Conn.

Oyster Months

Oysters should not be eaten during their spawning months, but should be protected in this period. It is merely a coincidence that these months in the year do not contain the letter "r." Oysters, however, are not unwholesome during these months, if eaten fresh from unpolluted waters.

Ten Miles Above Earth In an Air-Tight Ball

Professor Piccard's Curiosity About the Cosmic Rays Led Him to Venture That Broke All Existing Altitude Records

CHARLES KIPPER and PROF. PICCARD.

Ascending ten miles in the air in their hermetically sealed aluminum sphere, lifted by a hydrogen-filled balloon, Professor August Piccard and Charles Kipper, Belgian scientists, are the first men to penetrate the little-known stratosphere. Besides obtaining valuable scientific data pertaining to the origin of the cosmic rays, the daring men broke all existing altitude records. In soaring 52,400 feet, Piccard and Kipper bettered by 9,000 the record of Lieut. Apollo Soucek, U. S. N., who climbed 43,168 feet in a plane. The lighter than air record was held by Captain Hawthorne C. Gray, U. S. Army, who lost his life making it, through the severance of an oxygen tube. Gray's instruments showed that he had reached 42,270 feet. Diagram above shows the altitudes to which man has soared compared with the height of the world's highest mountain.

Prayers Open for Baseball

It is next to blasphemy to hit homers over unblest baseball diamonds in Japan and so these Shinto priests at Tokio are going through their prayer ceremonies on the opening day of the Japanese baseball season. They ask their deities not only for good weather—but for extra luck for the home town team, as well.

Married at 24, Mrs. Dusch is the mother of ten children, including the new twins, a boy and a girl. Bobby and Melvin, shown at the left and right of their mother, are a year old.

Clouting 'Em for Phillies

For 15 years Russell "Buzz" Arlett, 34-year-old recruit outfielder of the Phillies, who has been making life miserable for opposing pitchers this season, melted in the minors. National League fans may be surprised at his terrific hitting in his first year in major league, but old teammates of Arlett say he has always been a heavy hitter, never averaging below .330. He was the Pacific Coast's best hitter before the Phillies grabbed him. And are they ever glad? Yeah, we'll say. "Buzz" is shown above in a characteristic swing, at right with a horse-shoe good luck omen and below is pictured the way he holds his bat.

Governor Faces Ouster

Articles of impeachment against Governor Henry H. Horton, of Tennessee (top), are reported ready for presentation to the Legislature at Nashville. The ouster of the Governor, the first case of its sort in the history of the State, is sought due to charges that he had been under the influence of Col. Clash on "Field of Honor"

Howard Bridgetts, New York broker, at left, gave himself up to police after a wide spread search had been made for him as one of the participants in a strange duel with Lr. Joseph T. Loughlin, at right, Brooklyn physician, in which the latter lost his life. Bridgetts, in surrendering, declared he shot the doctor in self-defense. Police have evolved a theory that the men fought over some domestic issue on the "field of honor." The survivor of the duel suffered a gunshot wound.

VICTIM OF WRECK

New Mark Holder Acclaimed

First to acclaim C. W. A. Scott (in plane) when he landed in Sydney, Australia, after a record breaking flight from England was Kingsford-Smith, famous Australian flier (standing), whose previous record for the long hop was broken by Scott. Kingsford-Smith set a mark of 10 days for the flight, but Scott came along and battered it by half a day.

Like to Change Places?

While you might not like to swap places with pretty Elanore Link, shown above wrestling with a 200 pound 'gator, such work is only a part of the day's job for this 17-year-old miss, daughter of Carl Link, veteran trainer at the Los Angeles Alligator Farm. Elanore thinks nothing of going in the water and wrestling with a huge 'gator as she has lived on the farm the greater part of her life. That smile of hers just about ought to vanquish any ordinary alligator, anyhow.

In Music 50 Years

Walter Damrosch (above) began his musical activities in New York in May, 1881, when he assisted his father in preparation of a festival program. Now he is receiving congratulations on the fiftieth anniversary of his entrance into American musical life. Mr. Damrosch, after many years of concert orchestra work, is now engaged as radio musical counselor.

Olympics Her Aim

Carrie Jensen (above), 220-yard Metropolitan champion, of Elizabeth, N. Y., stretches her legs outdoors in a workout at a track in her city. She is a member of the Millrose A. C. women's track team, and with other members of the squad is getting into shape for the forthcoming track championships to be held in Jersey City in July. The 1932 Olympics in Los Angeles are Carrie's principal aim.

Cupid Beats Star

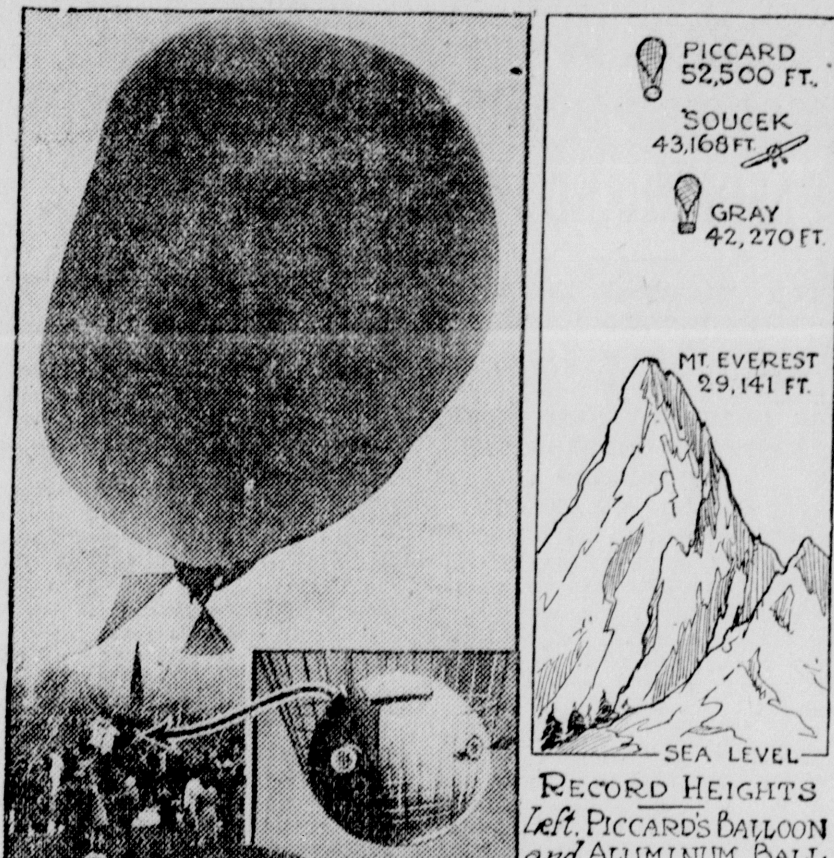

Cupid has won a victory over Glenna Collett (upper), where few individuals ever could accomplish it. Glenna, leading woman golfer of the U. S. and holder for the last five years of the national championship, has become engaged to Edwin H. Vore, Jr. (lower), of Ambler, Pa., also a golfer, construction engineer and nephew of William S. Vare, Republican leader of Pennsylvania. The wedding bells will ring out soon, according to announcement from the bride-to-be's mother, of Greenwich, Conn.

Oyster Months

Oysters should not be eaten during their spawning months, but should be protected in this period. It is merely a coincidence that these months in the year do not contain the letter "r." Orsters, however, are not unwholesome during these months, if eaten fresh from unpolluted waters.

Ten Miles Above Earth In an Air-Tight Ball

Professor Piccard's Curiosity About the Cosmic Rays Led Him to Venture That Broke All Existing Altitude Records

CHARLES KIPPER and PROF. PICCARD.

Ascending ten miles in the air in their hermetically sealed aluminum sphere, lifted by a hydrogen-filled balloon, Professor August Piccard and Charles Kipper, Belgian scientists, are the first men to penetrate the little-known stratosphere. Besides obtaining valuable scientific data pertaining to the origin of the cosmic rays, the daring men broke all existing altitude records. In soaring 52,400 feet, Piccard and Kipper bettered by 9,000 the record of Lieut. Apollo Soucek, U. S. N., who climbed 43,168 feet in a plane. The lighter than air record was held by Captain Hawthorne C. Gray, U. S. Army, who lost his life making it, through the severance of an oxygen tube. Gray's instruments showed that he had reached 42,270 feet. Diagram above shows the altitudes to which man has soared compared with the height of the world's highest mountain.

Prayers Open Jap Baseball

It is next to blasphemy to hit homers over unblessed baseball diamonds in Japan and so these Shinto priests at Tokio are going through their prayer ceremonies on the opening day of the Japanese baseball season. They ask their deities not only for good weather—but for extra luck for the home town team, as well.

What a Generous Stork!

Some people may look upon twins as no blessing whatsoever, but how about two sets of them within 14 months? Mrs. Joseph Dusch, 36 years old, of Pittsburgh, Pa., is photographed with her foursome, but they're not quite ready for the golf links yet. Married at 24, Mrs. Dusch is the mother of ten children, including the new twins, a boy and a girl. Bobby and Melvin, shown at the left and right of their mother, are a year old.

Clouting 'Em for Phillies

For 15 years Russell "Buzz" Arlett, 34-year-old recruit outfielder of the Phillies, who has been making life miserable for opposing pitchers this season, melted in the minors. National League fans may be surprised at his terrific hitting in his first year in major league, but old teammates of Arlett say he has always been a heavy hitter, never averaging below .330. He was the Pacific Coast's best hitter before the Phillies grabbed him. And are they ever glad? Yeah, we'll say. "Buzz" is shown above in a characteristic swing, at right with a horse-shoe good luck omen and below is pictured the way he holds his bat.

"F-o-u-l-a-r-d" Wins $1,000

In the ordinary course of events the word foulard is used in the manufacture of dresses, neckties, etc., but it has now exceeded the bounds of its orthodox duties and has caused $1,000 and two trophies to fall into the lap of Ward W. Randall, 12-year-old White Hall, Illinois, youth, who won the seventh annual national spelling bee held at Washington, D. C. He is shown above with his proud mother and the prizes which were awarded him for knowing the letter combination

Governor Faces Ouster

Articles of impeachment against Governor Henry H. Horton, of Tennessee (top), are reported ready for presentation to the Legislature at Nashville. The ouster of the Governor, the first case of its sort in the history of the State, is sought due to charges that he had been under the influence of Col. Luke Lea (left), newspaper publisher and politician and a director of several banks, which failed with $7,000,000 in State deposits. Congressman Edward H. Crump, Memphis political leader (right), is directing the campaign to oust the Governor.

An increase for 1931 equal to or larger than that of 1930 is anticipated.

Visiting American

Mayors Snubbed by

Communist Frenchman

Strasbourg, France, June 3.—(AP)—The visiting American mayors, touring France as guests of the government, were snubbed today by the communist mayor of Strasbourg, in Alsace-Lorraine.

The mayor, Charles Hubert, and communist aldermen of the Strasbourg assembly left town prior to the arrival of the American mayors' party, apparently to avoid giving a reception for the visitors.

They explained that they did not want to greet the representatives of capitalism. The American mayors quickly changed their program and cut their visit short, starting at once for Rheims.

PRESBYTERIANS TO HOLD ANNIVERSARY

Special Services June 14 to Observe 42nd Anniversary of the First Presbyterian Church

The First Presbyterian church will observe its 42nd anniversary June 14 at 10:30 A. M.

The church was organized Sunday, June 14, 1889. A Sunday school had been organized in the preceding February. Rev. Clarence G. Miller came to take charge of the work in April of that year and Rev. R. N. Adams, D. D., State Synodical Missionary, came to assist the pastor in organizing the church on June 14, the same year.

There were ten who undertook the responsibilities of the new organization and became charter members, of which three are living today, Mrs. Fred Luken, Mrs. Hattie Booth and Mrs. J. H. Gibson. An invitation has been sent to them to attend the anniversary doings.

Some of the special features will be a roll call of the complete membership of the church. A record of the attendance will be kept. There will be a register of those who have been a member of the church for 30 years or more, a recognition of those who were charter members and are present. The choir is preparing special music and the pastor will preach an anniversary sermon. Greeting will be read from those members and former pastors who will not be able to be present.

There will be other features of interest, among the most enjoyable of which will be the renewing of old friendships. There is much interest in the congregation in seeing that all who have been members, or who have attended the congregation are invited.

The increase for the previous year was 92,156. According to Director Warburton the pressure of economic changes and the after effects of the wide-spread drought of 1930 put heavy demands on extension workers. While this retarded the growth of membership somewhat, practically every county extension agent is carrying forward the established program of work with farm boys and girls. An increase for 1931 equal to or larger than that of 1930 is anticipated.

HOPED PRINCIPLES MAY BE APPLIED TO LABOR INJUNCTIONS

Washington, June 3.—(UP)—Hope that the supreme court would apply the principles just laid down in over-throwing the Minnesota newspaper "raz" law to cases growing out of labor injunctions was expressed today by Sen. Henrik Shipstead, farmer-laborer, Minnesota, author of an anti-injunction bill which has been pressed in congress for several years.

"He declared that the supreme court held in the Minnesota case that the remedy at law is adequate for libel and that 'it is therefore reasonable to assume that police regulations and laws on trespass will be held adequate and complete in the light of the same rule in labor disputes."

Strasbourg, France, June 3.—(UP)—The visiting American mayors, touring France as guests of the government, were snubbed today by the communist mayor of Strasbourg, in Alsace-Lorraine.

The mayor, Charles Hubert, and communist aldermen of the Strasbourg assembly left town prior to the arrival of the American mayors' party, apparently to avoid giving a reception for the visitors.

They explained that they did not want to greet the representatives of capitalism. The American mayors quickly changed their program and cut their visit short, starting at once for Rheims.

PRESBYTERIANS TO HOLD ANNIVERSARY

Special Services June 14 to Observe
42nd Anniversary of the First Presbyterian Church

The First Presbyterian church will observe its 42nd anniversary June 14 at 10:30 A. M.

The church was organized Sunday, June 14, 1889. A Sunday school had been organized in the preceding February. Rev. Clarence G. Miller came to take charge of the work in April of that year and Rev. R. N. Adams, D. D., State Synodical Missionary, came to assist the pastor in organizing the church on June 14, the same year.

There were ten who undertook the responsibilities of the new organization and became charter members, of which three are living today, Mrs. Fred Luken, Mrs. Hattie Booth and Mrs. J. H. Gibson. An invitation has been sent to them to attend the anniversary doings.

Some of the special features will be a roll call of the complete membership of the church. A record of the attendance will be kept. There will be a register of those who have been members of the church for 30 years or more, a recognition of those who were charter members and are present. The choir is preparing special music and the pastor will preach an anniversary sermon. Greeting will be read from those members and former pastors who will not be able to be present.

There will be other features of interest, among the most enjoyable of which will be the renewing of old friendships. There is much interest in the congregation in seeing that all who have been members, or who have attended the congregation are invited.

Trombones—Gust T. Lind, Henry Krause, Leo Miller, John Lundgren, and Joe Schwartz.

Basses—Howard Ebinger, Ben Stienke and Joseph Kiebler.

Drums—Roy Putz, George Putz, Lee Clarkson and J. A. Johnson.

MINISTER SOLVES GOLFER'S DILEMMA

White Plains, N. Y., June 3.—(UP)—The Rev. Arthur Stanley Wheelock has solved the golfer's dilemma of how to combine a good game with religious services.

The services will start at 8 a. m. and Wheelock promises it will not last more than 35 minutes. This will be in addition to the regular 11 o'clock service.

Artistic Treasures in Cities of Sunny Spain

Existing one of the many charms of any country above the others is always dangerous, but in the case of Spain few would question the right of its glorious and varied monuments of architecture to a pre-eminent position. More fortunate in this respect than other Continental countries, its Gothic and Renaissance masterpieces of art are supplemented by the mosques and palaces left as a heritage to the nation by the Moorish occupation of southern Spain.

Reverence and magic lie in the very mention of the Spanish place names and treasures of art—the storied Alhambra and the stately Alcazar of Granada, the Mosque of Cordoba, the Pillar of Zaragoza, the massive Cathedral of Burgos, with its lovely towers; Seville's magnificent cathedral, the famed Giralda and the Alcazar, the immensity and beauty of the Monastery of the Escorial, the richness of the facade of Santiago's cathedral, the University of Salamanca, the Roman aqueduct of Segovia, the arabesque treasures of Valencia (the city of the Cid), the royal palace of Madrid and the splendor of Toledo's cathedral. All these and many more are gems of art and symbols of a rich history. Their beauty is rivaled only by their surprising variety.—Exchange.

Trace of Absurdity in This Legal Phraseology

The witness, being duly sworn, did affirm, assert testify and declare, without mental reservation, and neither impelled, persuaded, coerced, cajoled, bribed, begged, besought, urged, pressed or in any way whatsoever importuned by another, but of his free will, unrestricted, unobstructed, clear, independent, unchecked, unfettered, unhindered, untrammelled and undisturbed;

To wit, that he was the possessor, owner, master and keeper of a dog, and hereafter when the name of the dog shall appear it shall be construed, interpreted, defined and accepted as meaning neither a cat, bear, pig, elk, pony, mule, civet, deer, squirrel, lynx, wolf, fox, lion, cow, horse or other four-footed beast; neither fowl, fish nor insect nor other living creature; nor such creature as may have lived in a past age, nor such as it may be conceived will live in ages to come, but as a plain dog, which is to say, a four-footed, carnivorous, domesticated mammal of the family canis.—Exchange.

Think It Over Real kindness means doing a lot of little things kindly and always, and not a big thing now and then.

When Pope Made Labor Plea

Reading his encyclical on world labor conditions, Pope Pius is pictured above as he broadcasts his message to workers all over the world from the Vatican. The encyclical was emphatic in support of labor, insisting on greater consideration for the working classes by the capitalists.

Happy Moon Legends

The Finding of Happy Moon.

The Red-children were frightened. The North Wind was angry. Old-man-above-the-sky woke up.

Now when Old-man-above-the-sky wakes up, even Na-quill hides.

Old-man-above-the-sky was awake because the Moon was gone.

The North Wind was angry because the Moon was gone and he could no longer tell how many moons to wait before he brought the ice.

The Red-children were frightened because any change in the sky always frightens them. They ran about, crying. Their crying woke Strong Heart, who was asleep in bed. His bed was a hollow place between two hills.

At first Strong Heart sat still, wondering why the Red-children were making so much noise.

Then he looked up; the Moon was gone.

"Oh, good," he shouted. "Na-quill has taken the Moon for me."

All was dark. Strong Heart could see nothing, but he could hear a noise.

The noise grew louder. It was a scream. It was the scream of the North Wind. The scream said, "Yee, wooooee, wooooee! I'll get you oo-oo-ooo!"

Strong Heart shivered. Then he heard another sound.

"Thurump, thurump!" said the sound. It was the sound Na-quill's wings made as he flew through the air.

Strong Heart stood on top of a mountain and watched. He saw a strange race.

The starlight shone on the gold feathers in Na-quill's wings. The starlight shone on the North Wind. The North Wind was white and ugly. His feathers were sharp and terrible. He was throwing ice-spears at Na-quill.

Na-quill was flying low. He flew over the trees on the hill where Strong Heart stood. The North Wind was flying after him. The North Wind threw a whole handful of arrows at him. He threw the arrows so hard that when they hit the ground they burst into white powder.

Then suddenly Na-quill rose high into the air. He flew off toward the South. In the South is the Place-of-Hot-Sand where the North Wind never roars.

The North Wind followed Na-quill till all of his arrows were gone. Then the North Wind himself had to run, for Na-quill turned.

Na-quill turned and chased the North Wind. Na-quill had filled his beak with hot sand.

The North Wind's wings are frozen together. The North Wind knew that if the hot sand touched his wings they would melt and drop off. So he flew fast and got safely back to the North again, but was still angry.

Strong Heart knew why Na-quill had flown over the forest. He guessed that there he should hunt for the missing Moon.

So Strong Heart went into the forest on the hillside. He looked under all the low hanging branches. He looked behind the rocks. He even looked inside the sleeping flowers, because he did not know how small a new Moon is. Finally he found her. She was caught in the top of a tree. She was laughing down at him. She was slim. She was golden. She was beautiful. Her long, black hair was caught in the branches of the tree. She did not mind that. She was laughing.

"Help me down, please, Strong Heart," she said.

"Surely," said Strong Heart, and he helped her down.

"What is your name?" he asked.

"I have no name. I am too new."

"Then I shall call you Happy Moon," said Strong Heart. "Every one shall always call you Happy Moon."

Happy Moon laughed. She was always laughing.

After a while they heard Na-quill flying over them.

"Oh, there you are," said Na-quill. He stopped on a rock close by them. He was breathing hard, for he had flown so hard after the North Wind.

"I am angry at Kee Yay. He waited till the Moon was half an hour old before he called me."

"Look!" said Happy Moon.

The world around them was suddenly bright. The forest was bright in the moonlight.

"See," said Happy Moon. "Old man has hung up another Moon in my place. Now he has gone back to sleep."

"I shall leave that Moon up there," said Na-quill.

"I do not want another Moon," said Strong Heart, and Happy Moon laughed. She was always laughing.

Man's Earliest Occupation

Agriculture is believed to be the earliest occupation of man. It can be traced back to prehistoric times, when primitive man began to select particular plants as preferable to others for his use as food. Records on ancient monuments have enabled us to trace the history of agriculture in Egypt back to at least 3000 B. C.

Animal Jumping Record

The galago, or flying lemur, a native of the Indian archipelago, is said to be the champion jumper of animals, clearing about 300 feet on an inclined plane.

Fame

It is not without reason, wrote Lowell, that fame is awarded only after death. The cloud-dust of notoriety which follows and envelops the men who drive with the wind bewilders contemporary judgment.

Famous Composition

The composition "Adeste Fideles" is ascribed to John Reading, organist of Winchester cathedral, 1975-1081, and of the college to 1092. The air at once became popular.

Their Handicap

It is with certain good qualities as with the sense; those who are entirely deprived of them can neither appreciate nor comprehend them.—La Rochefoucauld.

Government Foundation

All free governments, whatever their name, are in reality governments by public opinion; and it is on the quality of this public opinion that their prosperity depends.—James Russell Lowell.

Human Brain

In some places the layer of gray matter which composes the brain is a quarter of an inch thick, while in the thinner parts it is but one-tenth of an inch thick.

Her Greatest Role

Regarded by the American movie fan as one of the most glamorous figure on the screen, Marlene Dietrich, one of Hollywood's latest acquisitions from Germany, is just "mother" to Maria Seiber. Maria is Miss Dietrich's little daughter, whom she recently brought back from Der Vaterland.

NANCY CARROLL IN SUIT FOR DIVORCE

New York, June 3.—(UP)—Nancy Carroll, screen star, has brought suit for divorce in Nogales, Mexico, against her husband, Jack Kirkland, the latter admitted today.

"It's just another one of those things— incompatibility," Kirkland said when reached at his apartment here. "We tried our best to get along but just couldn't any longer."

"We're still very fond of each other and we shall remain friends but we decided it was best to sever the matrimonial bonds."

Kirkland, a former newspaper man, met Miss Carroll in 1923 when she was in the chorus of "The Passing Show" at the Winter Garden. They were married the following year and have one daughter, Patricia.

BELIEVE FIRE BUG ALSO ROBBED BANK

Brayton, Ia., June 3.—(UP)—Police were convinced today that whoever set fire to an oil storage station also was guilty of robbing the bank.

A spectacular fire yesterday attracted the entire village as huge walls of smoke issued from a tank in which were stored 12,000 gallons of gasoline and oil. Among the spectators were officials of the Brayton Savings Bank.

When they returned, the entire contents of the bank vault were gone. Loss was $890. It was recalled today that two strangers who had been in town for several days also were missing.
